

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 20.

MURMURED "ELLA" AND DIED.—There came to El Paso, Texas, some time last winter a young fellow who looked as if he was in the last stages of consumption. He said he was poor and wanted to get something to do with the hope that the climate might benefit him. He obtained a position as dish washer in the railroad eating house, where all the trains from Mexico stop when they come across the river, and so worked it that his table was near the window which looked out on the platform where the passengers promenaded when the train was changing engines and the passengers were eating their meals.

He was reticent about himself, and besides knowing that his name was Tom no one knew anything about him. Tuesday as the train from the City of Mexico pulled into the depot Tom, as usual, was looking out of his window. Suddenly he was seen to go to the door in a hurry, and then there were two shots fired in quick succession. A passenger lay dying on the platform and Tom was dead almost at his feet. The dying passenger was only able to say "Ella" before he died. It was discovered that Tom was a girl, but who she or the man was could not be found out.
